Example of Per capita Distribution from Natural Resources

A common example of this type of disbursement is payments made to members from the sale or harvest of timber, treaty fishing rights, minerals, land, etc. Any proceeds are exempt from federal income tax, state tax, and the Medicaid (Apple Health) program. The source of the funds should be included in the verification so as to not be confused with other Per Capita payments that are countable.

Examples of Needs-based Payments

1. Needs-based payments are issued by the tribe based on the special needs of members such as Elders. These payments may not all have the same name depending upon the tribe. Payments can be for any special need the member may have including caring for children. Eligibility must include a financial needs-based test to receive. A specific example is the Muckleshoot's Tribal Elder Security Assistance Plan (TESSA). This assistance is exempt for all Medicaid.
2. General Welfare Payments are very similar to TESSA but there is not a financial needs test. Unless the tribe specifies the requirements to receive payment staff may need to ask for verification. A good example of this income source is the Muckleshoot's TESSB plan income. These funds are exempt for MAGI but countable for Classic so it is important to understand the source of the funds.

Example of Income from Employment related to the Exercise of Treaty Rights

These funds can be regular employment or self-employment but what is common is that the work is related to the exercise of treaty rights such as fishing. Sometimes this income is reported to Employment Security so it looks like countable income when the systems look at the Employment Security Department file. It is important that if a tribal member is reporting income related to treaty rights that a letter from the tribe is also presented so the agency counts the income correctly (or exempts).
