Washington Health Benefit Exchange Names Apparent Successful Vendor in System Integrator Procurement

Deloitte Expected to Continue Providing Technical Services

OLYMPIA, Wash. – Dec. 5, 2019 – The Washington Health Benefit Exchange (Exchange) today named Deloitte the apparent successful vendor for the Exchange’s information technology systems. Deloitte was the incumbent system integrator applicant and has worked with the Exchange for the last seven years.

“During the procurement process, Deloitte demonstrated its ongoing commitment to the current and future needs of the Exchange,” said Pam MacEwan, Chief Executive Officer of the Exchange. “This includes a premium placed on the customer experience and forward-looking ideation to better serve the people of Washington.”

Deloitte currently supports the technical infrastructure needs associated with Washington Healthplanfinder that includes both the online and mobile versions of the state’s health insurance marketplace. The company also assisted with the Exchange’s recent migration to the Microsoft Azure cloud, an effort designed to bolster system performance and provide opportunity for future technical enhancements.

The system integrator Request for Proposal (RFP) process was initiated July 1, 2019. Contract negotiations between the parties are still forthcoming and the finalized agreement will require approval from the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services.

More information about procurements for Washington Healthplanfinder and the Washington Health Benefit Exchange is available on the Exchange’s vendor procurement web page.
