Availability

Special enrollment periods are available for 60 days from the date of the change in circumstance to select a plan. Some special enrollment periods are available up to 60 days in advance.

Coverage Start Dates

Coverage start dates typically fall to the first of the month after selecting a plan. Some qualifying life events automatically provide retroactive coverage, like birth. Coverage dates can begin later if you report coverage ending at a future date. You have 60 days, from the date of the qualifying life event(s), to select a plan.

Verification

Your health insurance company may ask for documentation to verify the change you reported.
